

A handwriting practice sheet featuring a grid of lines. The grid consists of two horizontal solid lines and seven vertical lines. The vertical lines alternate between dashed and dotted patterns, creating columns for tracing and independent practice. The first column is defined by a solid left line and a dashed right line. The second column is between a dashed left line and a dotted right line. The third column is between a dotted left line and a dashed right line. The fourth column is between a dashed left line and a dotted right line. The fifth column is between a dotted left line and a dashed right line. The sixth column is between a dashed left line and a dotted right line. The seventh column is between a dotted left line and a solid right line.

A handwriting practice sheet featuring a grid of lines. The grid consists of three horizontal solid lines and ten vertical dashed lines, creating a series of columns and rows for practicing letter formation.

